When Harry Met Lily

Lily came to London to work as an aupair with 100 Euros in her pocket and 2 suitcases full of hopes and dreams. For a while, it really felt like it was her time now. Travelling the world, meeting new people, becoming part of a family where she felt she really belonged. But there was something missing. She would meet property investors, lawyers, bankers. They would have great conversation, and at the end of the evening they would say - So, what do you do? Lily would say, smiling: "I am a nanny". They would run, never to be seen again. She started thinking there was something wrong with her. She published her book "Meet The Nanny". On the last pages of her book she wrote: "I have met a few princes and a few frogs. I may not have found the right one yet, and I am still waiting, but I know one day my prince will come and I will be even happier."

She was looking for ways to promote her book and also - for a boyfriend. She had low confidence because of a traumatic childhood, & she was looking for something but she had no idea what it was. She was struggling to find her purpose and a way to use her skills. She felt she hadn't achieved much, like she had lived 29 years for nothing. She was asking everyone - "Do you know what I could do with my skills?".

The course leader at a personal development seminar she was at said "walk in that direction - there is one guy who has an English school - maybe he can help you". Lily walked in that direction, in a room full of 300 people, but she had no idea who the man was. She sat down next to a bald man with a paunch, not really Lily's cup of tea. She was slim, full of energy and enthusiasm and gathered a lot of attention around her. He seemed quite boring and really focused on the course. That man was Harry.

Harry was looking to write his first book but had no idea how to do it. As soon as he realised that Lily had already published her book and was helping others write their books, he asked for her help to ghostwrite it. Later on he started dating Lily. Her book found her a 'prince' faster than she thought. Have you ever noticed how when you are looking for something, sometimes something even better comes along? Later on he offered her a job managing his property business, English school and career advice part of the business.

As a result, Lily helped over 2000 people to find accommodation, their first job and taught them enough English as to find their first job. Lily used her creativity to double the price of the English courses, increased the property rental prices by adding value and by improving their image.

Many years later, she started looking for her purpose again. She discovered she loved writing and turning ordinary things into extraordinary products. She decided to help aspiring speakers to enhance their image so they can bring to life their extraordinary knowledge and stories. She knew she would need to learn to speak confidently and fearlessly so Harry trained her at Speakers Are Leaders to overcome her huge phobia of speaking she had for 30 years.

Since then, she has empowered over ten thousand people to enhance their image and is working closely with a select, limited number of people who want to be booked to speak as keynote speakers, enhance their visibility and personal brand & fast track the growth of their business through turning their knowledge into books, workshops & online courses.

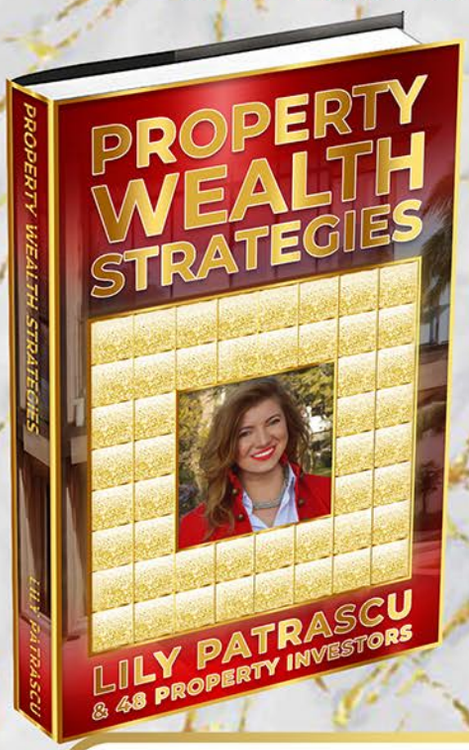

She helped Harry improve his image online through persuasive copywriting on his websites, workshops and online products. Lily has helped authors enhance their image and as a result they got featured on TV, sold books, got invited to speak at prestigious conferences and much more.

The point of the story is when you are looking for something, you have to grab the opportunity when it comes along. Lily feels it is her time now to empower 100 million people to share their stories in books that transform the world and it is your time now to shine.

If Harry had not believed in Lily's potential, he would perhaps not have given her the chance of getting trained by him and she would not have fulfilled her potential. If Harry had not given Lily a chance to do the copywriting for his websites, books, written materials, he would perhaps not have achieved his dreams of speaking on worldwide stages. There is nothing you cannot do if only you get the help of the right people.
